

CLINICAL QUALITY ANNOUNCEMENT: DAN BECK IS PROMOTED TO DIRECTOR OF CLINICAL QUALITY

HCC Staff update

We are very excited to announce the creation of the Director of Clinical Quality Assurance (CQA) position here at HCC and the promotion of Mr. Dan Beck into that role. Jim Hart, President and CEO of HCC, says this of the expansion, "I am very excited to have Dan lead HCC's Clinical Quality team. Dan has an impressive resume of study monitoring and auditing that supports his understanding of industry regulations and compliance. Along with this expertise, he possesses exceptional interpersonal and communication skills, which are critical to implementation and execution of quality methods and operations."

Dan joined HCC in 2016 after serving in clinical director roles for three different medical device companies, including Advanced Stent Technologies, Inc. Thoratec Corporation, and KeraVision, Inc. Early in his career Dan worked as a CVT technician in the cardiovascular lab at St. John's Regional Health Center in Springfield, MO. In addition to his clinical and clinical research background, Dan brings experience from multi-functional areas of regulatory, manufacturing, R & D, and quality assurance.

This newly created position will encompass oversight of HCC's clinical quality management system and will bring added resources to the already effective HCC Clinical Quality team.

The Director will work hand-in-hand with HCC colleagues to support clinical quality across all service areas. Per ICH-GCP E6(R2), clinical quality assurance must be an integral part of any clinical project; the Director of CQA position aligns with the current landscape to ensure that quality assurance and control provisions are paramount for HCC clients' clinical projects.

Mr. Beck said this about the expansion of clinical quality at HCC, "I am personally excited about this role because it provides me with an opportunity to enhance the quality services of an already high-quality team, where I can apply nearly three decades of clinical research experience to a growing, dynamic company. As part of the wider HCC team, it is rewarding to contribute to the delivery of clinical quality assurance to our clients".

HCC's goal is to provide the highest level of service to our clients – based on HCC people – supported by HCC systems. We at HCC strive to sustain peace-of-mind for our customers in their decision to join with Hart Clinical Consultants. Peace-of-mind knowing they can consistently expect, and receive, high-level performance with high quality assurance...

...across all pillars of service.

We are blessed to have Dan as part of our HCC family. Please help us congratulate him on his new role as Director of CQA.
